

Future News Worldwide

Are you the future of journalism?

We're looking for the most TALENTED, MOTIVATED and PASSIONATE young journalists to attend an intensive online media training session on 14 or 15 JULY 2021

Future News Worldwide 2021 is a partnership programme between the British Council and some of the world's leading media organisations: Reuters, BBC, Google News Initiative, The Herald, STV, The Thomson Foundation, The Quint and the UK Schools of Journalism. The conference is open to university students and recent graduates aged 18–25 who are passionate about journalism in any form.

This year's conference theme is: Climate, COVID-19 and the rise of disinformation: how journalism can best serve a world in crisis.

As well as hearing from leading reporters and broadcasters, attendees will get to experience a breaking health story in a high intensity news-room simulation, designed to provoke real-time reporting decisions to combat the spread of misinformation.

INTERESTED? YOU SHOULD BE!

Find out more and apply now:
www.britishcouncil.org/future-news-worldwide

APPLICATIONS CLOSE NOON GMT, 8 JUNE 2021

